DRAMATICS WORKSHOP

Legal Aid Society of Law Centre- II organized a Workshop on Dramatic Skills on January 22, 2020. The event was conducted in association with the Films and Theatre Society under Mr. Atul Satya Koushik. Prof. V K Ahuja inaugurated the event by delivering the welcome address. Mr. Sandeep Gupta, Secretary of North Zone, DSLISA graced the occasion. He emphasized on the role of Nukkad-natak for interacting with common people and to share our message.

Everyone present in the room was waiting to know what makes this workshop different from any other seminar. The answer was provided when Mr. Atul took the stage. To be an alumnus of Law Faculty and being a CA could not stop him from entering the field of Theatre. Activities and games were organized after forming 3 teams. Deciding the name and slogan of the teams brought the creativity of the members. It was followed by an activity to assess concentration power. He focused on how the different ways of expressing same sentence can change the meaning for other people.

Highlight of the workshop was the depiction of different moods of human by the law students, who are not Professional Actors. Attendees of the workshop realized that everyday we play so many roles and one should express himself/herself freely. 2-3 hours can never be enough to learn a lot but they proved to be enough to make people more confident and happy in the end. Motivational words of Mr. Atul left a great impact.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH PROGRAM

The Legal Aid Society of Law Center 2 successfully held its Community Outreach Programme in Mukeempura area, near Malkaganj, North Delhi on January 31, 2020. Around 40 PLVs of the Society, under the guidance of the Faculty members, participated in various activities constituting the programme, which included door to door survey and Nukkad Natak.

The main objective of the community outreach programme was to spread awareness about the commission of Legal Aid Clinic by the Legal Aid Society of Law Centre-II, under the supervision of Delhi State Legal Services Authority. The underpinning of the Clinic is based on the understanding of socio-economic nuances of the Indian society, wherein the awareness of law and the access to justice by common people are both equally a far-fetched idea. It is in this light that the Legal Aid Clinic has been set up, which aims to provide free legal aid to the needy and marginalized sections of the society.

The Clinic, set up in room no. 106 at Umang Bhawan, shall remain open on all working days between 1-4 pm to take due note of issues and, shall have a lawyer in attendance on Thursdays every week to render professional counselling.

It was in the direction of spreading word about the Legal Aid Clinic and its functioning that the door to door survey and Nukkad Natak were conducted. The Para Legal Volunteers were divided in two sets- one for the survey and the other for the Nukkad Natak.

The PLVs who formed part of the survey team were further divided in groups of equal sex ratio to make the exercise more efficient and facilitate easy communication between the surveyors and the surveyed. The door to door survey was carried out around a set of questions that were handed beforehand to the PLVs, which included questions ranging from basic information like name, educational background, etc. for data collection, to questions targeted at ascertaining the experiences of common people vis a vis law enforcement and authorities. The issues that came to the fore as a result consist of problems relating to property disputes, criminal cases and documentation, etc. and, the slow grievance redressal of the same.

The Nukkad Natak brought a gust of energy to the environment and managed to attract an impressive crowd with its relevant content and impactful execution. The issues highlighted in the 15 minutes act which began with “Suno Suno Bhai Suno Suno” and ended with dispensing of DSLSA Helpline no. “1516”, were diverse.

The malpractices of ill treatment of house help and aged parents were brought to attention and it was explained how these acts are punishable by law and their redressal possible. The people were made conscious of the power that lies with them in the form of their right to seek justice and, encouraged to get help in the exercise of the same without hesitation through the services of institutions like Delhi State Legal Services Authority. The role the community members could play as third party locus standi in ensuring the delivery of justice to the aggrieved was also insisted on.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH PROGRAM

The legal aid Society of Law Centre-II organised a community outreach programme on February 14, at the Government boys school, Roop Nagar.

The aim of the outreach programme was to educate the students about their basic fundamental rights, DPSP, and fundamental duties and also spread awareness about the Legal aid clinic provided by Law Centre-II. The programme was started by a session on POCSO given by a senior Supreme Court advocate. It was an interactive session where the students were made aware about the basic fundamentals of POCSO and their rights. The session was followed by a presentation given by the PLVs on Fundamental Rights, DPSPs and fundamental duties related to children. In the end a set of questions were given to the students in the form of a quiz based on the presentation and certificates were distributed to the winning students to encourage more participation.
